To succeed in today's construction industry, a contractor must be part marketer, part accountant, part safety expert and part attorney. That's where ABC enters the picture. We accomplish collectively for our members what they often do not have the time to do for themselves.

ABC is a national construction association representing all phases of the industry. The ABC Hawaii Chapter was founded by a small group of independent companies who were seeking to pool their resources and serve as the united voice for the merit shop in Hawaii.

ABC is committed to the promotion and defense of the "merit shop" philosophy, the belief that any contractor submitting the lowest reasonable bid and capable of completing the project should be awarded the contract without regard to labor affiliation.

Since our humble beginnings, ABC has grown to 24,000 members nationwide. In Hawaii, our membership represents the general contracting, subcontracting and supplier communities. Like the other regional offices, ABC Hawaii serves the individual needs of companies within their own communities and allows members to network and develop business contacts on a regular basis.

ABC actively promotes its members to construction owners nationwide. Locally, the chapter regularly refers out its members to owners, architects and general contractors.

'That's Why I am a Member': The Top Reasons for Joining ABC Hawaii

1) ABC Trains Your Workforce

ABC Hawaii provides approved apprenticeship training to all contractors, regardless of union affiliations. This Apprenticeship Program offers top notch training for carpenters, electricians, painters, plumbers and sheet metal workers.

2) ABC Handles Your Labor Problems

Management and labor issues have long plagued business owners. How do you protect your company's interests when hiring? When firing? ABC members have available to them a wide array of human resources and legal services designed to help them safely navigate these issues. ABC members receive everything from "foolproof" employee applications to how to handle a union organizing campaign. ABC members also receive free initial legal consultation as part of their ABC Membership.

3) ABC Provides Safety Consulting

Through Our Safety Council, ABC can provide you with training, customized written safety plans; safety audits and more.

4) ABC Helps Keep the Government Off Your Back

ABC works hard on its members' behalf in Hawaii and on Capitol Hill. ABC keeps its members apprised of new legislation or regulations that can affect their ability to compete.

ABC's National office in Washington, D.C. is the watchdog of the industry and has proven to be extremely effective over the years in protecting contractors against harmful legislation.

5) ABC Helps You Network

Each month, ABC offers an opportunity for you to meet fellow ABC members. From our Golf Tournament and Monthly Dinner Meetings, to our Safety Forum and Apprentice Appreciation Night and the black tie Excellence In Construction Awards Ceremony, the chapter provides your company with a variety of opportunities to make that important contact with general contractors, architects, engineers and subcontractors.

6) ABC Educates Your Front-Line Managers

ABC offers seminars on everything you need to help your project managers, foremen, supervisors and safety directors perform their jobs faster, smarter and more cost effectively.

7) ABC Keeps You Informed

The chapter's newsletter and legislative updates keep you informed of important industry happenings whether it is in Hawaii or on Capitol Hill. Nationally, Construction Executive keeps you abreast of changes in the industry and provides you with valuable management and financial information that can help your company.

8) ABC Recognizes Your Work

ABC offers a variety of programs that promote your company to your most important audience: Your clients. ABC's Excellence In Construction (EIC) program provides an excellent platform to help you showcase your accomplishments to the construction buying community.
